

GET VOLUME & SHINE

One editor test-drove “free-from” products that totally delivered.

As a beauty editor, I've tried more than my fair share of volumizers in pursuit of big, bouncy hair. While I may get the fullness I want with some of them, my strands often end up feeling dry. That's why I was so intrigued by the promise of Essentials Oils by Pantene Mint & Ginseng and teamed up with the brand to try it out.

The shampoo and conditioner's nutrient-rich formulas are intended to work together to give you the hair of your dreams: The shampoo lathers up with volumizing technology to add visible fullness, then the conditioner helps restore hair's natural moisture. For me, the end result was effortless detangling, healthy body, and a shine that lasted.

The products in the collection are free from any silicones, parabens, dyes, mineral oil, or synthetic fragrances. Instead, they're made with natural ingredients—specifically ginseng, which is believed to have naturally stimulating properties, and essential oils derived from mint, which provide an incredible natural fragrance.

Thanks to Essentials Oils by Pantene Mint & Ginseng, I finally didn't have to choose between volume and shine nor rely on ingredients I don't feel good about to get bouncy, silky, fresh-smelling locks—and neither do you.
